Mount Vernon At Home is a nonprofit membership organization that offers peace of mind and practical solutions to its members, who reside in the Mount Vernon area of Fairfax County.

Benefits for members:

Transportation: Rides by volunteers to doctors and medical appointments or rides to shop and assistance with groceries; carpool to exercise classes at the Senior Center and for similar activities:

Educational/Cultural Activities: Group visits to museums, art galleries, theater and music performances; discussion groups; lectures on subjects of interest to seniors.

Social Activities: Restaurant outings and pot luck dinners; day trips to historic sites; support groups such as walking and dieting; special interest groups.

Home Services: simple repairs, organizing closets; temporary care of pets; help with filing, bill payments, computers and cell phones; errands for the housebound to the library, post office; referral to specialized contractors to install safety features; and more.

Health Services: volunteer monitoring of homebound members; assistance with medical records and insurance claims; help with medical visits or hospital stays from volunteers trained as advocates; plus referrals to carefully vetted preferred professional providers for companion care, home maintenance and repair services, among other essential services.

Mount Vernon At Home members enjoy enhanced independence and benefit from these services. Mount Vernon At Home is part of the fast-growing "aging-in-place village" movement that is changing the paradigm of aging in America.
