Glennan Center Memory Assessment Clinic at Eastern Virginia Medical School offers an assessment of memory loss. The geriatric assessment focuses on the cognitive, psychological, physical, and social aspects of the individual's life,

Combined Internal Medicine and Geriatrics Program staff, a geriatrician, a neuropsychologist, and a licensed geriatric social worker to evaluate the extent of memory loss and look for its cause. They also suggest ways patients and their families can plan for the future.

We accept Medicare, Medicaid, and most commercial insurance providers. A referral from your primary care physician is recommended.
